Wake Forest School of Medicine has an exciting new summer program! The Wake Forest Medical Scholars Summer Program is an educational program designed to recruit, educate, and prepare high school students for careers in the medical field. The School of Medicine’s Office of Student Inclusion & Diversity seeks to enroll 20 to 25 high school students to participate in a week-long summer program, which includes tours of Wake Forest School of Medicine buildings, career exploration, clinical experiences, and exposure to state-of-the-art health technology equipment used in various medical professions. At the end of the program, the students make presentations about their research.
